DESCRIPTION

*Positive by Neuro... No Neuro is based upon thin slices of memory, and the disintegration of their existence. The day-to-day, with its "ups and downs," all while operating/existing above and to the right of the body. When the day ends, and the separated is reunited; how does one collect what is no longer there? Separating consciousness from the corporeal. Memory and thought are being swept out to sea in granules that are imperceptible to those around you. Short term is riddled with inconsistencies. Say "so long" to the granules.
